RE: EID-AL-FITR: A Major Islamic Holiday

We hope this letter finds in best of health and wealth.

The Muslim community throughout the United States will be celebrating Eid-al-Fitr, the Islamic festival of completion of fasting during the holy month of Ramadan on March 19th or March 20th of this year. Eid-al-Fitr is one of the two important holidays celebrated by Muslims worldwide & is considered auspicious.

On this day, the congregational prayers services are held in the morning hours and rest of the festivities continue throughout the day related to this religious occasion.

We request for cooperation from employers, school districts and all the other institutions to allow time off to all Muslim person(s) employees and students, so they may join in celebrating EID-AL-FITR.

Your favorable consideration in this matter will be highly appreciated.

If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact us at 321-219-7869 or via email at info@masjidtaqwa.org

Sincerely,
